Things to know about the electricity contract when you move

- › It's wise to sign a contract ahead of time, preferably a couple of weeks before moving, but it can also be done with shorter notice.
- › If you want the electricity connected the same day you order it, during a holiday or weekend, the local supplier might charge you extra.
- › The contract can be signed online as late as two days before the move. Any later than that you must contact our customer service.
- › Remember to inform us if you want to end your old contract. A previous contract never ends without separate notification since it's possible to hold several valid contracts simultaneously.
- › Before the electricity is connected, remember to check that your household appliances are detached from power outlets, and that there aren't for instance any objects stored on top of the stove. That way the electricity can be connected without any fire hazard.
